STUFF YOU SHOULD KNOW LIVE RETURNS TO ATLANTA SYMPHONY HALL IN FALL 2024

ATLANTA – Today, Stuff You Should Know announced the return of their live podcast show at Atlanta Symphony Hall on Saturday, September 7, 2024. Join the Atlanta-natives as they host the best darn podcast in the land. This show is presented by Zero Mile Presents and Delta Atlanta Symphony Hall LIVE. Tickets go on sale this Friday, March 1 at 10:00 AM at ticketmaster.com.

Stuff You Should Know Live

Stuff You Should Know is the award-winning podcast hosted by Chuck Bryant and Josh Clark and produced by the venerable website HowStuffWorks. Twice weekly since 2008, Stuff You Should Know has released a mind-addling array of episodes, cracking open the mechanics, history and cultural and scientific impact of topics like: Ouija boards, asteroid mining, termites, the use of MDMA to treat mental illness, the game of horseshoes, gender reassignment surgery, what would happen if the Earth stopped spinning, Barbie® dolls, peak oil, the effects of going without sleep, bioluminescence, disco, icebergs, the fat tax and so on and so on, totaling more than 800 episodes and adding two more every Tuesday and Thursday. So far, SYSK has had over 15 BILLION downloads by listeners around the world.

Chuck and Josh live in Atlanta, though not together; instead with their wives, Emilie (Chuck) and Umi (Josh). When they aren't working - but really, in this day and age, when is anyone not working, you know? - Chuck plays in his old man band, as he's a bit of an amateur guitarist, and Josh likes to find and try new cocktail recipes, as he's a bit of an amateur mixologist.
