ANNOUNCING A TWO-SEASON

Beethoven Project

Nathalie Stutzmann and the ASO perform all nine Beethoven symphonies, the Missa solemnis and the Triple Concerto. Beethoven's first 8 symphonies will be performed in the spring of 2025, followed by the choral Symphony No. 9 in the fall.

24 25

SEASON

DEAR FRIENDS OF THE ASO,

It is with great enthusiasm that I share with you the 24/25 season of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra and invite you to join us as we celebrate our 80th season!

With each year we are getting to know one another more and more, as we explore new pathways through the orchestral repertoire, and this season I am eager to dive into some of the cornerstones of the Classical period. We will have a strong focus on that repertoire throughout the season and will perform key works by Mozart, Haydn and Beethoven; composers who are at the very foundation of the orchestral musician's being. Familiar, yes, but also essential. I often say that composers like Beethoven are doctors for the orchestra's sound, medicine for the orchestra's soul.

To this end, I decided to embark on the amazing journey of conducting a celebration that features nothing less than all of Beethoven's symphonies!

The conclusion of this Festival will be of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony in the fall of 2025, and I'm eager to welcome you to Symphony Hall for each stage of this journey. Along the way, we will also explore the glorious Missa solemnis with our own, exceptional Atlanta Symphony Orchestra Chorus.

As you discover the season in the following pages, I hope that you are excited as I am for what is to come. We welcome lots of great artists, soloists and conductors from the international scene; and we welcome back old friends, as well as a talented trove of singers. Many of the ASO's own players step into the spotlight as well, taking on solo roles.

The orchestra belongs to us all, a very human instrument. Humans need beauty — it is our mission to bring it to you. Thank you for your support of our orchestra, and I look forward to seeing you soon.

SYMPHONIC SUNRISES

Iconic symphonies abound in this series, with a grand Mahler opener, Beethoven's First and Third, Tchaikovsky, Haydn and the crystal views at the top of Strauss' epic Alpine Symphony. In addition to two cello concertos, you'll hear Marc-André Hamelin play Bartók and the ASO's own David Coucheron and Daniel Laufer on Beethoven's delightful Triple Concerto. It's a great chance to commune with energetic early symphonies.

SONGS AND STORIES

A dazzling selection of evocative tone poems and songs lends a storytelling feel to these concerts. Nathalie Stutzmann opens with Mahler's Des Knaben Wunderhorn, Rimsky-Korsakov's adventurous tale Scheherazade and Khachaturian's whirling and unabashedly romantic music from the ballets Gayane and Spartacus. The Beethoven Project is well-represented here, with his Symphonies No. 2 and No. 5 and the epic Missa solemnis with the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra Chorus.

FEAST FOR THE SENSES

The sheer variety of this series should intrigue even the most-seasoned concertgoer. From Haydn's London Symphony to Walton's choral Belshazzar's Feast to three cherished works by Ravel, this series spans centuries and continents in style. Nathalie Stutzmann conducts three performances in this series, with Bruckner and Beethoven Symphonies (No. 4 and No. 7), plus a delightful program of French works paired with one about France—An American in Paris.
